The International Studies Stream is happy to announce that funds are available to support research and/or internships on topics of global significance, and invites applications for funding up to $2000 for the summer of 2015.

ELIGIBILITY

Applications are open to first years, sophomores, and juniors who have completed the following ISS courses: IDND 066 Global Society & IDND 067 Problems of Globalization. Students should be in good academic standing. In rare cases, graduating ISS students entering fifth year programs may be considered.

HOW TO APPLY

1. Consult with a faculty sponsor on a topic that is related to themes of international economy, culture or politics. Agree upon a research project that the professor can supervise.

2. Submit a description of the project to include the following:
   - The question or subject of the research ("problem statement")
   - The background reading you have done ("cite relevant literature")
   - Description of your concrete research activity ("method")

3. Submit a letter of recommendation from your faculty sponsor agreeing to supervise the work and addressing the likelihood that you can perform as described in your proposal. Letters can be addressed to Professor Richard Peet (ISS Director).

DEADLINE

All application materials must be submitted by 5:00 PM on Wednesday April 15th to Rachel Levitt, ISS Program Assistant, in Jefferson 220 B, or emailed by the deadline to RLevitt@clarku.edu.
